INDUSTRY SPOTLIGHT: LEADERSHIP

The topic of How to Lead and Serve at the Same Time is one for the ages. A tightrope walk to balance. It is a broad topic, but can be very nuanced in it's answers. In our post on the issue, we provide six no-nonsense reminders and five avenues to dive deeper into the specifics.

But first, we want to take a moment to expand the possibilities of our mind with an exercise the MM staff recently participated in during a staff development training. The idea of having fences of possibility and learning that they can be moved. This will be especially important before you read this post on Leading and Serving. And maybe take a peek at the verse on the second page before you start reading, too.

Kerry-Ann was a real trooper to start at Miller Management in the middle of a global pandemic; plus help cover multiple caseloads in her first 3 months! We knew she was a great team player from the very beginning. Kerry-Ann's background is in customer service and she has a passion for helping others.

She has always wanted to work in or for non-profits because she wants to help others and make a difference. All of which is evident in her seven years of service in the United States Marine Corps. Outside of work, she enjoys weekend getaways, zip lining, swimming, and bar-b-ques with her family.

VERSE OF THE MONTH

Matthew 20:26

"Whoever wants to be great must become a servant. Whoever wants to be first among you must be your slave. That is what the Son of Man has done: He came to serve, not be served—and then to give away his life in exchange for the many who are held hostage."

CAPTAIN'S CORNER

"God has a plan. Leadership's highest responsibility is to attempt to find it and align with it."

- Dr. Glenn A. Miller
