YEAR-END IS HERE

Welcome to another Year-End at Miller Management! A bit scary perhaps, but mostly the best season of all! You get to thank your donors with their end of year giving statements Thank your employees with a Christmas bonus. Or celebrate all that you were able to accomplish while perusing your financial statements and preparing your budget for next year.

Yes, this might be a little bit of extra work. But your good faith accounting partners have everything you need to have a successful and thankful year-end season. For the practical ones of the group, you were sent information on our client year-end portal. Including checklists, links to the forms you'll need to fill out, and due dates for every item.

For any ministry, client or not, we provided a list of top hits for year-end on a blog post. Feel free to pass along your knowledge to another church friend by sharing that post. We want everyone to have as successful a year-end as you will.

FRAUD AWARENESS: NOVEMBER

As we look forward, next month is a big one for our industry - Fraud Awareness / Fraud Prevention Month. It's always the right time to look into your current procedures and see how you can improve for even more fraud awareness in your processes. Towards that end, we want to draw your attention to our Anti-Fraud series. Part 2: The Fraud Triangle is a great place to start for novices. Or visit our Accounting Day post for those who have been around the anti-fraud game for awhile.

MM Highlights

PICNIC CELEBRATION

In mid-October we celebrated 35 years of business at our Company Picnic. While you'd think this month would bring cold weather in Kansas City, it didn't. While you'd think bounce houses and payroll team members wouldn't get along, they did. And while you'd think we would skip the hayrides and s'mores over the bonfire in the unseasonably warm weather, we didn't. Because warm weather, getting lost in the woods, and too much food weren't going to stop us from celebrating this milestone in our company.

We were also able to surprise our owner/founder, Kim Miller, with a special book of photos over the years. With signed messages from our team. We are grateful to be able to talk about our success over the years, and know that it's all because a few churches took a chance on this husband and wife team back in 1989. ...
